This software is a part of the softwares that I use to get content from the web and convert it to my design. I use this software for layout, background and writing text for my booklets. vEvo : (Sedo Software , Trony Technologies GmbH, 2010) : It is a digital text editor which has the capability to convert the text in a PDF file to another file format, text file. It is used by a variety of people such as graphic designers, web developers, and web masters for designing, editing and formatting web-based documents, especially content-heavy websites. It provides many features that makes it easier for users to edit and format content for a variety of purposes. I have designed my own booklets by using this software. It allows me to create a web page which has various document features that allow me to design and modify my booklets in a variety of ways. 7.5 Documentation [#section13-2055102918815336] ===== 7.6 References [#section14-2055102918815336] ===== Literature review [#section15-2055102918815336] ===== In my dissertation, I have relied on the literature review method for my purpose. The literature review has been carried out by using many different search engines, scientific library's databases, and the dissertations database of my university. The purpose of the literature review is to provide useful and informative background that helps to comprehend the issue and research problem more accurately. 8.0 Discussion [#section16-2055102918815336] The discussion section has been carried out in the form of question and answer that I have answered. The purpose of the discussion is to present my arguments and arguments made by other scholars. The aim of discussion is to add to the present literature and to bring further knowledge to the readers on the topic. 9.0 Conclusion [#section17-2055102918815336] In conclusion, it is important to conclude that my dissertation contributes and adds knowledge and information to the existing literature on the topic of "lifelong learning and disability". I have used a variety of approaches, including qualitative, quantitative, and mixed methods, that allows me to provide more insights on the topic. The result of my dissertation has shown that there 82157476af
